Political Notices.

AT a Large and Enthusiastic Meeting of the Teachers of the Common Schools of the City of New-York, both Hark and Fubine, held at Odd Fellows' Hall, for the purpose of co-operating and advancing their cause, their work was done. Edward J. D. Jaynes, Esq., who has been appointed for the office of Street Commissioner, the following preamble and resolutions, without distinction of party, were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, JOHN J. DOANE, Esq., who has for sixteen years been a member of the Board of Education, and whose services, by his able and constant attention to his duty, succeeded in elevating the interests of education and whereas, by his private intercourse with the members of his profession, he has rendered himself worthy of their confidence; and

Whereas he now stands before the public as a candidate for the office of Street Commissioner, and this being the first instance, for many years, in which a member of our profession has been nominated for the office of Street Commissioner and in view that the Teacher is equally entitled to participate with other professors in the honor and emoluments of public office; therefore,

Resolved, That, without distinction of party, we will, by all the means endeavor to procure the success of Mr. DOANE.

Resolved, That in supporting Mr. DOANE we sacrifice no party preferences, nor compromise any principles—the office being one not legislative, but executive, and without the veto power.
